The officer told her that her car was found abandoned in Texas and now there's a warrant for her arrest. The officer then asked for her personal information and Wheeler gave the last 4-digits of her social security number; nothing else. Wheeler reported that once the officer tried to get more information she asked for his credentials and a confirmation of who he was working for. The officer ap [REDACTED] became spooked and hung up on [REDACTED] gave me the number on her caller ID that this call came from. NIPD called and spoke with a male who identified himself as Officer Alex Lee. NIPD asked Alex Lee for his badge number and his supervisor's name. Alex then hung the phone up and never answered the questions asked. NIPD called a second time and the same series of events occurred. This is a known scam and [REDACTED] was advised not to pass any person information and we discussed identity fraud and scams at length before she left the PD. At this time there was no loss incurred by [REDACTED] so an investigation will not be opened. Cleared. Incident #: |
